

Form 24 – Notice to admit facts · PART B: SUMMARY SCHEDULE

WC/2024/227 · Shepherd v Workers' Compensation Regulator

This Part is served with, and in addition to, the itemised schedule in Part A. It does not replace it and does not derogate from it. Each fact below is a composite of facts already specified in Part A, and the paragraphs of Part A that specify them are identified against each. It is provided so that the respondent may, if it wishes, admit a limb as a whole rather than paragraph by paragraph. A response to a fact in this Part is not a response to any fact in Part A, and the facts in Part A are unaffected by it.

Limb	Fact to be admitted	Admit / Deny
1(a)	The database, the directives, and the two accumulations From 18 July 2023 the Appellant's access to the Switchboard database was removed and, on the Respondent's pleadings, was not restored before 18 June 2024, while the duties requiring that access remained assigned to him. During that period the Respondent issued the changes of 15 April 2024, 9 May 2024 and 17 May 2024 to the Switchboard team by email. Between 2 and 8 May 2024 the MASPER Registrar reported nine occasions of misrouted calls to Ms Taylor, and between 15 and 20 May 2024 the Integrated Respiratory Service twice reported that calls continued to be misdirected to it. Specified in Part A at paragraphs 39–109.
1(b)	The communication book On 6 June 2023 Ms Taylor removed a page from the workplace communication book. In an email to Ms Reese of the same day she stated: "I did raise my voice and asked him to please stop talking over the top of me." Both facts were admitted by the Respondent on 18 February 2026. Specified in Part A at paragraphs 246–262.
1(c)	The matters raised in August and September 2023 On 7 August 2023 the Appellant raised rostering and workplace matters in writing with Ms Taylor and Ms Reese. Ms Taylor replied the same day acknowledging a rostering oversight, Ms Reese replied the same day directing him to continue communicating with Ms Taylor, and on 29 August 2023 Ms Reese sent him HR Policy E12. The Appellant did not submit a grievance under that policy in 2023. Specified in Part A at paragraphs 120–127.
1(d)	The Special Pandemic Leave application In February 2024 Ms Taylor declined the Appellant's Special Pandemic Leave application on the basis that the required statutory declaration was not attached. The Respondent pleads that a review indicates the attachments were in fact present, and that the decline was "a matter of human error by Ms Taylor". Specified in Part A at paragraphs 110–119.
1(g)	The union delegate and the roster consultation In April 2023 the Appellant notified Ms Taylor by text that he was "just putting his hand up" in relation to the role of union delegate, which the Respondent admitted on 18 February 2026. He was endorsed as a workplace delegate on or about 3 November 2025. The Union Encouragement Policy QH-POL-248 requires managers to take a "positive, supportive role" in relation to delegate elections. Specified in Part A at paragraphs 134–149.
2(a)	The pay corrections On 3 May 2024 Queensland Health Payroll wrote to Ms Taylor, copied to the Appellant, identifying incorrect payments across four fortnights and asking that an AVAC be submitted to correct them. The myHR submissions report for 1 February to 31 May 2024 records five Attendance Variation and Allowance Claims for the Appellant in that period, the initiator of each being "Donovan-Taylor, Chloe", and none being the Appellant. Specified in Part A at paragraphs 150–180.

Limb	Fact to be admitted	Admit / Deny
2(b)	The delay in correcting the pay Payroll's instruction of 3 May 2024 was followed by Ms Taylor's email of 21 May 2024 stating she was still awaiting payroll confirmation, and by the submission of an AVAC on 28 May 2024. The Respondent admitted on 18 February 2026 that the AVAC was submitted on 28 May 2024. Specified in Part A at paragraphs 150–180.
3(a)	The break of 17 and 18 March 2024 The Appellant was rostered to finish at 23:00 on 17 March 2024 and to commence at 06:00 on 18 March 2024, a break of 7 hours. The Respondent admitted that fact on 18 February 2026 and pleads it at paragraph 22(a) of its statement of facts and contentions as "a 7-hour break (rather than an 8-hour break)" resulting from "human error". Specified in Part A at paragraphs 192–204.
3(b)	The minimum break, and what was not in place The Award and the employer's Fatigue Risk Management Policy require a minimum break of 10 hours between shifts, or 8 hours by written agreement, which the Respondent admitted on 18 February 2026. The Respondent does not allege that any fatigue risk assessment was conducted, or any fatigue risk management training provided to the Appellant, at any time before 30 June 2024, and Metro South Health stated on 5 June 2026 that implementation at Logan Hospital Switchboard occurred after 30 June 2024. Specified in Part A at paragraphs 181–225.
3(c)	The fatigue leave request and its refusal The Appellant requested fatigue payment on 8 April 2024. Ms Taylor escalated the enquiry to Human Resources on 9 April 2024 and refused it on 1 May 2024, 23 days after the request, on the basis of an agreement he had signed on 17 June 2020, adding that he was "able to terminate this agreement going forward". The Respondent's own response of 6 September 2024 confirms there had been a "change to your employment contract and adjustments in your working hours" since that agreement was signed. Specified in Part A at paragraphs 17–219.
3(d)	The Review Decision Review Decision 69983 of 24 October 2024 states that the break "equated to 7 hours", that the Appellant "still did not receive a minimum 8-hour break", and that "the rostering of these two shifts amounted to unreasonable management action". The Respondent admitted the contents of that decision on 18 February 2026. Specified in Part A at paragraphs 231–236.
